Q: How to install a font in a local webserver without changing the default fonts? I'm setting up a local web server for an Angular project. I want to be able to access this project at a website without having to type in the full webaddress: Since the default fonts for html on most web browsers and the browsers themselves are not standard fonts, it doesn't look like a good idea to install fonts on the computer I use to code. Is there any way to do this? A: A quick way is to use font-face and an HTTP server like http-server: Create a directory with the name of your project inside your Angular directory, for instance myproject Then create a main.css and a font.css file in the root of myproject. Inside the font.css file, write your font-family and font-src. For instance: @font-face { font-family: 'myfont'; font-weight: normal; font-style: normal; src: local('Droid Serif'), local('DroidSansSerif'), local('Droid Sans'), local('DroidSans'), local('Arial'), local('Helvetica'), local('

Cellular senescence and oxidative stress: a paradoxical interplay in the pathology of atherosclerosis. Atherosclerosis is a complex disease in which both local and systemic factors such as inflammation and oxidative stress play important roles in the progression of this disease. Oxidative stress has been shown to increase vascular smooth muscle cells (VS 2d92ce491b
