The present invention relates to a nitride semiconductor light-emitting device that is manufactured by forming a layer including a nitride semiconductor material on a sapphire substrate. 2.

Description of the Related Art

As the conventional nitride semiconductor light-emitting devices, there are known for example a light-emitting diode (LED) and a semiconductor laser (LD). In the following description, the light-emitting diode is assumed to be an LED. The LED is typically composed of a sapphire substrate on which a nitride semiconductor layer including an active layer for generating light is formed. The nitride semiconductor layer is composed of at least an n-type layer and a p-type layer. For example, Japanese Patent Laid-Open No. Hei 7 (1995)-165184 discloses a structure in which a p-type layer is formed above an active layer in the n-type layer, and the p-type layer is composed of an n-type layer, a p-type layer, and a high-resistance layer between the n-type layer and the p-type layer.

Further, Japanese Patent Laid-Open No. Hei 7 (1995)-169190 discloses a structure in which a p-type layer is formed above an active layer in the n-type layer, and the p-type layer is composed of an n-type layer, a p-type layer, and a high-resistance layer between the n-type layer and the p-type layer. The n-type layer is composed of a single-crystal AlGaN layer. The active layer is composed of a single-
