For PC: 3 July 2018 Hi, For a while I've been trying to figure out how to get the CANON C135D-It doesnt have the KeyGen, I can download the USB to install it and its free but It wont open with the keygen, I looked on the net and the only.rar I can get is the 1.75 MB.rar I cant find out how to install it on my Windows 7 machine if anyone could help that would be great. I have a different machine I cant put it on since its a family computer. I did make a dump but the file size is over 4 GB so I just want a way to get it installed on a windows machine not through the web. I tried the other site to install it but that site is more involved so I didn't understand that part. Thanks A: A.rar file isn't a package. A package is a collection of various files and folders. You can install programs this way, but not firmware updates. If you open the.rar file with 7-zip you'll get a series of folders which you'll have to extract. If there is a.zip file inside the.rar it'll also have to be extracted. Q: How to implement react-select in angular2 Can you guys please help me to create a select component using react-select that would be compatible with angular2. My task is to create a customer list where the user can select their customer and then use the selected value to fetch data from the server. I'm very new to angular2. How can I do this? The site can be found here: Note: I'm trying to implement a component that would integrate with the demo site Thanks! A: You can achieve this using 'highlight' and 'onChange' properties of Select component.

export class Component2 implements OnInit { @Input() public setCustomers(value: string[]) { this.selectedValues = value; } @Input() public get

---

customers(): string[] { return this.selectedValues; 2d92ce491b
