The time is now. 12:51 am, Friday, June 9. I just got home after a full day of work. Actually, a half-day of work, and a half-day of playing poker. I didn't even realize it until now, but that's when the day started. Now it's ten pm and I'm back at my desk, about to turn in for the night. Iâ€™m so full of the day that itâ€™s hard to focus on anything else, including this forum thread. So Iâ€™m going to sit and look at some of these responses. And Iâ€™ll eventually answer a few of them. And maybe Iâ€™ll even think of a few others. Iâ€™m going to write that down, too, even though I am such a procrastinator that I wouldnâ€™t even save my own email anymore.

A procrastinator, me? I wish. Iâ€™m a great multitasker. Iâ€™m not sure if I always am, but it certainly feels that way at this moment. I have lots of things running in the background on my computer. Iâ€™m writing this in Paint Plus. Iâ€™m trying to write a letter. Iâ€™m listening to music. Iâ€™m checking my mail. Iâ€™m playing around with a few images on the computer. Iâ€™m looking at Reddit and Facebook. Iâ€™m searching for music on Napster. Iâ€™m looking at Steam, too. Iâ€™m blogging, when the inspiration hits. Iâ€™m doing a bit of drawing. Iâ€™m playing Plants VS Zombies 2. Iâ€™m watching Netflix. Iâ€™m reading the Bible. Iâ€™m looking up

I just want to remove the first four lines and keep the rest. I use sed -i "s/^./xxxx/g" output.txt. A: sed -i.bak's/^./(CRACK FOUND\).*/^1/g' output.txt that should do it for the first 4 lines.

Thyroiditis-induced exogenous thyroxine autoantibodies: stimulation of thyroid secretion by deiodination in vitro of thyroxine to tri-iodothyronine. In an immunochemical study, antibodies against thyroid-hormone-binding globulin (TBG) were demonstrated in rabbits with thyroiditis induced by thyroxine (T4) in lactose (T4-lactose). After the antibodies were absorbed with T4-lactose, they could be detected in autologous sera by specific thyrotropin (TSH)-binding inhibition. The T₄-lactose-absorbed antibodies bound to isolated TBG but not to thyroid-hormone-binding globulin (TBG). Thyroid secretion in vitro, when the isolated thyroid cells were incubated with T₄-lactose-absorbed anti-TBG antibody and TBG, was shown to be stimulated by deiodination of T₄ to 3,5,3'-triiodothyronine (T₃), although the T₃ concentration was extremely low. The results indicate that antibodies against TBG bind to TBG and activate thyroid secretion in vivo and in vitro by a process of T4 to T3 deiodination in the thyroid gland. Multiple role of p53 in transcription, recombination and apoptosis. The tumour suppressor p53 is a transcription factor that controls the expression of a number of genes involved in cell cycle arrest, senescence, cell differentiation and apoptosis. p53 binds to specific DNA sequences, DNA loops, to regulate gene expression, and also can be associated with DNA to regulate non-histone proteins. Some of the non-histone proteins include SMARCB1/SNF2H, RAP1, BRG1 and different types of chromatin remodelling complexes. p53 is activated by different cellular stress, such as DNA damage, oncogenic signalling, and hypoxia. It is involved in both the canonical and non-canonical functions of p53 in the regulation of transcription
