object from a jsp to a servlet and have access to it? Like this > And then accessing it from the servlet? A: Yes, of course. Just create a POJO that you can send to your servlet and store that as the request parameter.

```
public void doGet(HttpServletRequest request, HttpServletResponse response) throws ServletException, IOException { User user = new User();
    user.setName(request.getParameter("name"));
    user.setEmail(request.getParameter("email"));
    /*... */
    userService.updateUser(user);
```
